Whatever happened to Bolante

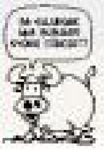

LAST FEBRUARY, THE SENATE BLUE ribbon committee chaired by Sen. Richard Gordon concluded its investigation into the alleged P728-million fertilizer fund scam and recommended the prosecution of its alleged perpetrator, former Agriculture Undersecretary Jocelyn Bolante, and nine others.

The Senate report recommended the filing of plunder, technical malversation, money laundering and perjury charges.

To a public attuned to the attention-grabbing Senate inquiries, that was the COTABATO CITY—PRESIDENT Macapagal-Arroyo will definitely step down in 2010 and run for Congress in her home province of Pampanga, a Cabinet official said yesterday.

Agrarian Reform Secretary Nasser Pangandaman gave this apparently categorical statement on Ms Arroyo's political plans when he spoke to reporters at the sidelines of the Independence Day celebrations in the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao (ARMM), where he was a guest speaker.

"Definitely, she is running for Congress and would represent the pro-

PROVIDING JOBS FOR FILIPINOS IS nothing out of the usual for the government and the business, but in this time of global economic crisis, it's a form of heroism, said President Macapagal-Arroyo.

In a break with tradition, the President marked Independence Day in Koronadal City, South Cotabato, launching the government's three-day nationwide jobs fair and distributing livelihood grants to displaced workers.

Nations say they're ready vs flu

SYDNEY—NATIONS AROUND the world said they were ready to combat the spread of the swine flu virus yesterday, urging people not to panic after the World Health Organization declared a global pandemic.

WHO officials stressed that the designation of a "moderate" pandemic did not mean the number of deaths from the A(H1N1) influenza virus—currently at 144 worldwide—would spike, and did not recommend closing any borders.

But officials around the world called for caution, saying prevention measures and vigilance would be the best way to halt the spread of the virus, which has already infected nearly 29,000 people in 74 countries.

Exploring A New Dimension of Shopping

By June [illegible]

VIRTUALLY non-existent half a decade ago, shopping online is now the fastest growing form of retailing.

Today, the web is brimming with online merchants leaving the impression that the Internet is a vast, freewheeling bazaar. But as online shopping and retailing continues to move into the mainstream, it's important to take note of a few basics about to help grow your business or get your money's worth.

Go for something different and unique

For both online merchants and shoppers, it's best to offer and look at unique items. It may convenient to just click on the first thing that catches your eye, but there are a lot of fashion items available online offer a touch of personalization.

For Margo Abas of http://estrellasaccessories.multiply.com, it's all about customizing according to her clients' preferences. "I create one-of-a-kind, hand made accessories and I make sure that what I have to offer my customers are unique in its own way" she explains.

This idea is echoed by Valerie Mendoza and Jessen Gonzales of http://Y3Lhandpaintedshoes.multiply.com. "We have a lot of competition online for customized footwear, but our specialty, which are portraits is something that we are known for, in addition to the quality of our creations."

VJ Eugenio and his partner Ryan Crisostomo, of http://coretempotshirts.multiply.com focuses on local customization on a broader scale. Known for selling locally inspired shirts, his attention to detail shows in the quality of his series. "Our cuts are specifically made to fit the Filipino body type and all shirts are designed by my business partner and produce only a maximum of 50 per design."

Price Competitively

In addition to the convenience, competitive pricing is a distinct advantage that makes online retailers stand out in the industry.

Ronald Mabanag, fellow online entrepreneur who started the business http://ronaldmabanag.multiply.com with the support of his partner and family began by putting his creativity into handmade jewelry designing, which he sells at a margin of the price such items go for in regular shopping malls.

"Products like mine usually range at around 5 digits when sold at malls. I wanted my accessories to accessible to a lot of people, to reach a diverse group of customers a broader market but still maintain the same quality and aesthetic, with a touch of personalization," he enthused.

Online Interaction

Being online means you are able to interact with your customers regularly. Questions can be thrown in by customers and are actually encouraged by online retailers as it helps build their credibility on the net and allows them to highlight the kind of customer service that you can expect from doing business with them.

"Customers rely on feedback coming from customers. Build your reputation by having unique, high quality products and excellent customer service," advises Rianne Trinidad, the online entrepreneur behind http://proudmamastore.multiply.com.

Make the Most Out of Technology

The availability of the Internet and other technology certainly makes building an online business easier for aspiring entrepreneurs and shopping easier for online shoppers. But it's best to get to know the tools of the trade, inside and out.

"Take advantage of the many resources available to make running your business easier. Social networking sites like Multiply and Sandbox make brand building, product promotion and customer relationship management simple and easy," asserts Trinidad.

It also presents new opportunities for retailers and consumers for shoppers. Whereas a Google search for fashionable items for instance may bring back no less than half a million hits, new web portals like Sandbox offer a more streamlined way of narrowing down your search by categorizing merchants into specific divisions.

Dubbed as Digisoria, a moniker derived from the name of the country's famed bargain shopping destination and the concept of shopping evolving into the digital realm, Sandbox cuts a comprehensive selection of online merchants from different categories to create an online classified ads section that catalogs products and retailers according to their niche allowing shoppers to find what they want faster and easier.

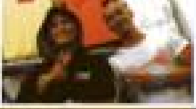

"Sites like Sandbox allows retailers like myself to take advantage of their streamlined system of online shopping. Everything is categorized, it's specific and it's niche. It's a great concept and I'm really hoping to tap into a broader market," shares Jen Advincula of http://totallychic.multiply.com, who is known for her made to order or custom made jeans and corporate uniforms.

Remember that in the end of the day, building a business online takes patience and determination. Align yourself with the right technology, be sure to interact and network both online and off and you will eventually build your credibility.

"Go into it with a basic plan. There's no harm in starting small and building up your business from there," shares Maegan Aguilar of http://maeganstar.multiply.com.

Anything, for Dad, on Father's Day

Compiled by Bianca Consunji and Pennie Pastor

Since I don't have the money to buy a present, I will give my dad a big hug and a kiss, and thank him for being the most wonderful dad in the world.

I'm sure no money can buy that.—Angela Rodriguez, with dad Dan

"I no longer live with my parents, so I'm definitely spending Father's Day Sunday with my dad. He's a simple chap; treating him to a hearty char-grilled burger-and-fries (or cream lunch would do the trick). And I guess a reminder and reassurance that he is, and will forever be, the first man I ever loved." —Nikki Gloria Dizon

My gift for my dad this Father's Day will be a promise to always be on time and avoid going home late. —Anna Margarita Gonzales, with dad Bobby

"This Father's Day, I'll send a new photo of me and papa for this article. I'm sure my papa will get a kick out of seeing our photo in a newspaper! Happy Father's Day, Papa! Love you!" —Patricia Coronado

"My Dad works as an OFW. When I was young I used to ask him why does he need to stay away from us and work abroad. Every time I ask this question, he always tells me that he works abroad to provide us our daily needs and in order for him to send us to a good school. When I was younger, I didn't take my studies seriously. As this school year begins, I promise to study hard and try to pass all my subjects so that I can graduate on time. I think that would be the greatest gift that I can give my dad this Father's Day." —Princess Joy Padilla, with dad Danilo

Globe has introduced a new kind of tattoo – and this one does not involve needles or pain.

Globe Broadband Tattoo provides internet connectivity for users who are always on the go. Targeting the energetic and young at heart, Globe introduced stylish USB modems that wouldn't cramp your style.

But why call it Tattoo? Menchi Orlina, Globe's Consumer Marketing Group Head, has the answer. "Access to the internet is a form of self-expression. You can be whoever you want to be online. Our tagline is 'This is my internet.' It's a very individualistic product, which is why we called it Tattoo."

First launched in February, Globe recently released three new models of the USB modem – Black Dragon, Purple Brush strokes and White Techie. The Black Dragon has been the most popular model.

Globe Tattoo Broadband users enjoy a speed of up to 2Mbps, delivered via 3G and High-Speed Downlink Packet Access. This means you can chat, explore your favorite social networking sites, blog, e-mail, play games and stream music and movies with ease, wherever you are.

There are currently around 140,000 people who are enjoying the benefits of Tattoo all over the country, a fact Menchi is proud of. "The internet provides you with access to a whole slew of lifestyles. Globe provides access to that kind of visibility to the entire world. Your horizon is not just limited to the Philippines, it allows you exposure worldwide anytime. We're blessed to be able to provide that kind of connection. We're providing empowerment to Filipinos. Information is empowering. Ability for self-expression is empowering."

Menchi uses Globe Tattoo Broadband herself. "I wouldn't be able to sell it unless I use it myself. I represent the regular customer. At the office, I use the internet for work-related things. When I'm at home, social networking, e-mail, I download, I stream videos."

Menchi believes young people will enjoy the on-the-go access Globe Tattoo Broadband provides. "Tattoo provides them access to the internet whenever they want, wherever they feel like it. That's the kind of young people we have now – push into mainstream. Everything should be there, now, agad-agad."

Globe Tattoo Broadband is available in prepaid and postpaid. The prepaid kit, which includes a Globe Tattoo Broadband Tattoo Prepaid SIM loaded with five internet hours worth P100, a USB modem and a product manual, costs P1995. Surfing rates are P5 for every 15 minutes. Reloading the Globe Tattoo Broadband prepaid SIM is as easy as reloading your regular Globe Prepaid SIM.

There are three postpaid plans available – P799, which comes with 35 free hours a month; P999, which comes with 75 free hours a month and P1499, which comes with 100 free hours a month. The postpaid plans also get free Wi-Fi hours at Globe Wi-Fi hotspots nationwide.

As a special treat for new Globe Tattoo Broadband subscribers, those who sign up for the service between now and July 31 will get the following freebies with their kits: e-games CD installer (Cabal Online, DJ Online, Audition Dance Battle), video clips from Levi's and Adidas and McAfee anti-virus software installer which gives you a 60-day trial. Selected kits also get boost-addiction vouchers for gifts from Adidas and Levi's.

Globe Broadband Powered by WIMAX gives your family the fast internet access it needs

Why WIMAX

In the desire to provide internet access to families who live in areas that have limited opportunities for fast connections, Globe introduced Globe Broadband Powered by WiMAX (Worldwide Interoperability for Microwave Access).

A cost-efficient alternative to cable and DSL, WiMAX is a cutting-edge wireless broadband technology that can cover distances greater than those covered by other wireless technologies like WiFi, CDMA or 3G.

Globe is the first in the Philippines to commercially launch WiMAX to consumers and Globe's network is considered the first and biggest 2.5 Ghz WiMAX broadband network in Southeast Asia.

Just a few weeks after the launch, Globe already has around 4,000 WiMAX subscribers.

Globe's WiMAX-based plans give families value for money. These budget-friendly fast internet packages include the P795 entry-level plan which provides internet at a speed of 512 kbps – a package that they promise is up to 20% faster and 33% more affordable than entry-level wireless broadband plans from other providers. The P995 plan provides a speed of 512 kbps and landline access while the P1295 plan subscribers can enjoy a speed of 1 Mbps and a landline.

Initially available in selected areas in South Luzon, NCR, Visayas and Mindanao, Globe will continue to roll out WiMAX sites, along with its DSL and 3G facilities, in the quest to provide internet for every Filipino who needs access. In hopes of encouraging local governments to be more accessible to their constituents via the internet, Globe has also provided WiMAX to selected local community governments of Cavite, Batangas and Cagayan De Oro. Globe has also provided the same access to selected schools and city hospitals in Mindanao as part of its community service in marginalized areas.

Confident in the quality of this internet connection, Globe offers a money-back guarantee until July 31, letting subscribers terminate their account with no termination fees, if they are not pleased with the service.

Globe is also currently offering Globe Broadband and PC bundles, with down payments as low as P999. The PC and internet bundle comes in three plans – the Student Plan (down payment of P999, monthly fee of P1472 for WiMAX access and a PC), the Busy Bee Plan (down payment of P999, monthly fee of P1751 for WiMAX access and a net book) and the Techie Plan (down payment of P1499, monthly fee of P2029 for WiMAX access and a Neo laptop).

Take this quiz and find out

If you answered:

Mostly As.

You're a great fit for Globe Tattoo Broadband. Mobile and moderate – those are your internet keywords. You are always on-the-go and like having the power of internet access at your fingertips.

Mostly Bs.

WIMAX is the internet connection for you. You like being connected at home – just like your family does. This fast connection will fulfill your needs to explore the online world.

Mostly Cs.

HYPER-SPEED for the hyper internet user. You spend a lot of time online and fully embrace the wonders of the internet. (Yes, you're a big fan of downloads.) You share your home with a number of heavy internet users. Hyper-Speed is a way to answer all your net needs at the same time, without the hassle of slowing down your connection.

The need for speed

This isn't just fast, this is hyper-speed internet

This month, Globe intends to change your standard for fast internet.

Hyper-Speed Globe Broadband, which uses cutting-edge fiber-to-the-home technology called Gigabit-capable Passive Optical Network (GPON), is ideal for people who run multiple internet applications at the same time. Providing the answer for people who need speed, Globe promises internet connections of up to 100 Mbps, the fastest access available in the Philippines.

The entry plan, which offers a speed of 10Mbps for P3000 a month, includes a landline and a WiFi router, allowing the user to share his fast connection wirelessly with others at home.

Globe Hyper-Speed Broadband will initially be available in Forbes Park and Dasmariñas this month and in Bel-Air Village and Urdaneta Village in Makati in July.

Dress like a Pussycat Doll

Don't Cha wish that you were hot like them?

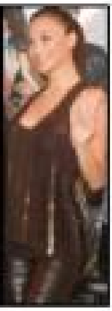

WHEN THE SONG "DON'T Cha" first came out on the charts, people were initially scandalized by the scantily clad girls who weren't afraid to say, "Don't cha wish your girlfriend was hot like me?" But after a while, they took to their audacious—and honed—fashion style. Like their songs, the fashion style of the Pussycat Dolls (or PCD) sometimes takes some getting used to, but one thing is clear: each Doll has a distinct style.

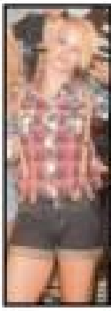

At the press conference held at [illegible] last Tuesday, guests gushed over the clothes the girls wore. Want to dress like the Pussycat Dolls? Here's a guide to looking like your favorite Doll.

The Pussycat Dolls "Doll Domination" concert tour was presented by Close, MTV and MCA Music.

Simple and sophisticated Nicole Scherzinger

Dressed in a tight black tank top, tight pants and thigh-high boots, Nicole looked glamorous in a subdued way—she didn't show too much flesh, and her hair was pulled back in a sleek ponytail. Neutral makeup completed the sophistication of her look.

Country girl Kimberly Wyatt

"Country style" was the theme for Kimberly's look for the day. She wore a plaid shirt, suspenders, denim shorts and boots, but went for a [illegible] that prevented her from looking like a rancher. Want the same look? Try wearing a tank top instead of the plaid shirt for a more subtle approach.

Glamorous and trendy Melody Thornton

The clear style [illegible] during the presscon, Melody's outfit caught the most attention thanks to her YSL cage boots. She wore a romper paired with a blazer and accessorized with glittery pins and Grecian-inspired headbands.

Ashley Roberts

Probably the most simply dressed PCD at the premiere, Ashley wore a casual tank top paired with a denim skirt and peeptoe shoes. However, she made up for the simplicity of her outfit with her long, wavy hair, which made her look like she came from the beach.

SPOLIARIUM AT THE PODIUM

SPOLIARIUM painting by Juan Luna

Mallgoers at The Podium will have the rare opportunity to witness some excerpts from Spoliarium, an original Philippine opera on Friday, June 12 at 6:00 PM at the mall's Atrium.

Inspired by the iconic Juan Luna painting, Spoliarium, the opera was composed by Ryan Cayabyab with a libretto by Fides Cuyugan Asensio. Luna had submitted this painting to the Exposicion Nacional de Bellas Artes in Madrid in 1884, where it brought great honor to the Philippines by winning a Gold Medal. In 1886, the painting was sold to the Diputacion Provincial de Barcelona for 20,000 pesetas. It currently hangs at the Main Gallery of the National Museum of the Philippines, where it continues to awe both Filipino and foreign visitors.

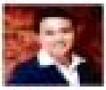

The opera, which is set in France in 1892, centers on the tragic love story of Juan Luna and his wife Paz Pardo de Tavera, whom he murdered along together with her mother in a fit of jealousy. He was subsequently tried before a French court, and acquitted in 1893, and eventually returned to the Philippines to work for the cause of Philippine independence.

In the Podium performance, Jeanelle Roldan will play the role of Paz Pardo de Tavera, Irvin Lumaag will play Juan Luna, Armin Consen will take on the role of Dr. Jose Rizal. Kitchie Molina will play the part of Dona Juliana, while Greg de Leon will play Tito.

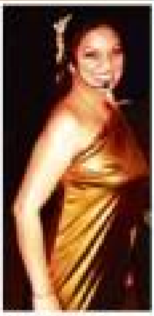

The Spoliarium is a production by the Music Theater Foundation of the Philippines in cooperation with the Heritage Center and The Podium.

Pinoy pride you can slip on

By [illegible]

BACK IN 2006, Havaianas released its first Filipinas collection. The black and white flip flops, which had the Philippine flag on the straps, quickly sold out.

Three years later, Havaianas is unveiling the limited-edition Filipinas collection to celebrate Philippine Independence Day.

The four designs, which hit stores yesterday, all feature a stylized pin highlighting the colors of the Philippine flag and two of them are emblazoned with the iconic Pinoy jeepney.

According to [illegible], the Havaianas distributor in the Philippines, the Havaianas Filipinas Collection is "an extremely limited run." Don't expect them to be in stores for long.

The exclusive Havaianas Filipinas Collection is available at [illegible]. For provincial outlets, visit [illegible].

5 things to do when your school's ...

the look on the face of your teacher when you confidently answer questions in front of the class without scratching your head or asking your seatmate for answers.

1. Whip up something tasty

You're more susceptible to the flu when you're not on a nutritious diet. Ditch the potato chips and fizzy drinks and bring out your mom's cookbooks. Spend an afternoon sharpening your culinary skills with healthy dishes such as gourmet salads, fruit smoothies, and fiber-rich goodies like oatmeal cookies.

3. Curl up with a book

This might come in handy once you have to start filing book reports for English class; check out your school's required reading list and see if there's anything interesting, so you don't have to slog your way through Shakespeare and Walt Me Tangent with Cliff Notes. If you're not exactly set on doing advanced reading, return to easy-reading favorites such as "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince" just in time for the movie.

4. Start a project

It doesn't have to be something school-related. Embark on a long-term project that you can sustain throughout the year (or even beyond school). Start a blog on something you're interested in, like music or computer games or clothes—you'll be surprised at how interesting research 'beyond the library' can be. For graduating students, start thinking of your thesis topics and draw up a plan so you know how to distribute your work throughout the year.

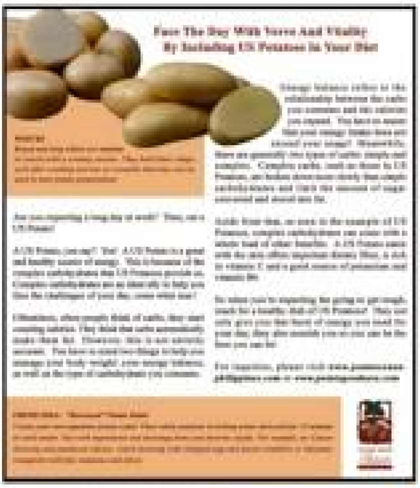

5. Rev up with a workout

Exercise is another way to strengthen your body, so get off the couch and switch off the TV. Go running, play basketball, do anything to get your body moving. If you're not an outdoors person, pick up an exercise video game such as Wii Sports. At least when you get back to school, you'll be more fit and won't have to wheeze your way through PE.

THREE CHEERS FOR DAD!

Celebrate the most important man in your life at SM Supermalls! Fun and exciting events have been lined-up to honor dad on his special day!

Selected SM Supermalls will hold a Thanksgiving Mass on Sunday, June 21. The priest will give a special blessing for dads after the mass.

BOND AND PLAY WITH DAD

Bring dad and sign-up for all the father and child competitions! Join the Father & Child Rockeoke Challenge. You and dad can show off your hidden rockstar. The pair that scores the highest wins the grand prize! Plus, special gifts will be given to the crowd favorites.

Are you a techie family? If you are, then check out the Wii Challenge! Fathers and sons pair up and play the latest Wii games. If you and dad are the adventurous types, then the Father & Kid Amazing Race is for you. Teams go around the mall while performing tasks and challenges. It's a great way to spend the day and bond with daddy!

BIG BOYS' TOYS

Let the child in dad out at the Toy Collectors' Fair. Watch his face light up when he sees the amazing array of toy collections on display, from superheroes to movie memorabilia. It's an exhibit that's not to be missed.

If dad's into bigger toys, then make sure you visit the Toys for the Big Boys Fair. He'll surely get a look out of the different models of mountain bikes and motorbikes. And he'll definitely love seeing all the sports and vintage cars.

IT'S ALL FOR DADS

Check out Daddy Cam: A Father's Day Tribute at selected SM Cyberzone branches. Professional videographers will record your video and upload it unto YouTube. It's a great remembrance of this once a year celebration. You can also challenge dad to a round of Mini-Golf. The best scoring dads win fun prizes!

FREEBIES FOR DADDIES

For the month of June, SM Bowling Center is giving dads 1 free bowling game for every 3 games played! And they also get a 50% discount on billiards after the first hour. At SM Storyland, dads get 1 complimentary ride-all-you-can-pass with every purchase of a ride-all-you-can tag.

Even SM Foodcourt is giving dads free treats. For every P150 single receipt purchase, dads get special perks from ACE Hardware. Thanks to Dad's Hardcourt Surprise. Dads also get a chance to win special edition items for every purchase of San Miguel Draft Beer at SM Foodcourt.

Father's Day comes just once a year. Make it special, make it memorable and make it the best day ever at SM Supermalls. Happy Father's Day!
